

CALL FOR PAPERS

THE "REAL" JUROR

Ninth Annual Jury Research and Practice Conference

FRIDAY 15th JULY, 2011

Venue TBC: Sydney CBD

Organised jointly by the Justice Research Group, University of Western Sydney

and the Court of the Future Network

What do we know about the 'real' juror? Researchers and jury practitioners come together in this conference to better understand the jury process and how it is experienced by jurors. We explore how jurors learn their role, how they respond to the design of the courtroom and how they deliberate.

Conference themes:

- "Getting to the 'Real' Juror" – methods and methodologies for jury research
- Training Jurors – orientation and participation
- Designing for Jurors – thinking beyond the jury table
- Juries and the presentation of evidence
- Juries and Research – outside the jury box

Keynote Speaker:

Associate Professor Mary Rose (University of Texas), who will present findings from research conducted in Arizona on the landmark study of decision making among 50 deliberating 'real' juries.

Registration and Participation:

Further information in regards to registration will be forthcoming, and will be facilitated through the University of Western Sydney's website. A Preliminary Program will be made available on the Justice Research Group Website by Friday 10th June 2011: <http://www.uws.edu.au/justice/justice> as well as the Justice Environments website: <http://www.justiceenvironments.edu.au/>

Call for Papers: please send 300-500 word abstracts to irg@uws.edu.au

Abstracts due: 5pm, Friday 6th May 2011
